Hussain Mustansir

Backend Engineer @ Observeri Technologies | xIntern @ Data
Science Dojo
United States

Summary

I am Hussain, a fresh CS graduate from Habib University.

Computers and technology have been my thing for as long as I can remember, and studying Computer Science gave me the foundation to turn that into real work. I like programming, so I'm always picking up something new, whether it's a different stack, a new architecture pattern, or just a better way to solve an old problem. If you want to know more, feel free to reach out!

Experience

Observeri Technologies

Software Engineer

December 2025 - Present (7 months)

- Worked on backend services using Node.js and Express.js, ensuring API responses and scalable server-side logic.
- Collaborated and contributed to frontend development and handled UI integrations using React.js.
- Built a centralized API audit logging system to track every CRUD operation across a multi-tenant backend.
- Developed a vulnerability scanner using ZAP with persisting results to the multi-tenant vulnerability register.

Data Science Dojo

Software Engineer Platform - Intern

March 2026 - June 2026 (4 months)

- Built and maintained backend services for Ejento AI, a multi-tenant LLM platform.
- Deployed and managed AI model configurations through Azure AI Foundry ensuring smooth deployment workflows and operational stability..
- Supported the setup of Azure API Management pipelines, developed backend APIs using Django, and contributed to platform administration features.

- Designed REST APIs following OpenAPI standards, including versioning, error handling, and documentation.
- Optimized API and database performance through query optimization, caching, and distributed system design.
- Researched Azure Monitor to develop AI model usage workbooks and assisted with API troubleshooting and issue resolution.
